Notes from the Curate

Sign of the times.

At the time of writing this piece, plaster has fallen from the ceiling of St Mary's for the third time this year. Each episode of falling plaster requires the affected area to be cordoned off, advice sought, permissions for repair granted, scaffolding erected and then new plaster applied. This all comes at a not insignificant cost. The PCC (Parish Church Council) are grateful to the Friends of St Mary's who have covered the cost of initial repairs.

St Mary's is not alone in experiencing the issue of falling plaster. It seems to be happening in Church buildings across the Diocese and beyond. The cause seems to be rapid fluctuations in temperature; we have had 3 heatwaves. The old plaster is unable to expand and contract quickly enough and so becomes detached from the underlying lath or masonry.

Climate change can be a controversial issue. When I raise this subject with my Dad, he points to the fact that the Earth naturally warms and cools, wasn't 1976 a really hot summer! In 1976 we had one continuous spell of hot weather rather than several consecutive heatwaves. The argument for climate change is that human activity has rapidly increased the rate at which the Earth warms and cools, so much so that the natural systems do not have time to adapt (just like our falling plaster).

When I think about the rate of technological change that has occurred over the last 500 years, it seems perfectly plausible that humanities actions have impacted the planet. The advances over the last 100 years have been amazing! The invention of the Jet engine which revolutionised global transport and our economies. Industrialise farming and the production of processed foods. Space exploration which has left at least 9300 tonnes of waste floating in orbit. Plastics washed into our oceans...the list goes on and its no wonder the natural world struggles to compensate.

But what to do?

Humanity is capable of remarkable achievements, we have the capacity to start and reverse our impact on the planet, but this will mean changing the way we live. Whilst we wait for governments to respond, each of us can do our bit. The 5 Rs seems to me to be a good place to start.

- Refuse: say no to single use items
- Reduce: cut down on overall consumption
- Reuse: think about buying second hand or items you can reuse
- Repurpose or repair: give damaged or unwanted items a new lease of life
- Recycle or Rot: sort waste properly and compost what you can. I eagerly await Herefordshire Councils introduction of food waste recycling!

Creationtide runs from the 1st September to 4th October. It is a time when the Church gives thanks for God's gift of creation and we renew our commitment to caring for the planet. I encourage you to join us.

Phillipa

From the Dean of Hereford

On being yourself

I remember my first day of school in September 1969. “Just be yourself!” exhorted my grandpa - which at the tender age of four made no sense whatsoever but which I have had good reason to think about many times since.

I have learned that ‘being yourself’ is an important part of living a full and faithful life. Each of us is unique yet we feel continual pressure to fit in with the expectations of others. As my grandpa tried to point out to the anxious four-year-old in the oversized blazer, happiness comes from embracing who God made us to be. When we are comfortable in our own skins, we are able to contribute authentically to our communities and build stronger relationships with others.

It is true of the church too. A church that is unsure of itself can easily drift into simply reflecting the preferences of society. A confident Church that knows who and whose it is can lovingly but clearly proclaim its beliefs even when they are unfashionable and teach the gospel in all seasons even (perhaps especially) at the hour of death.

Which brings me to the horror of what are euphemistically called “Pure Cremations”. One might also accurately call them Carcass Disposal. Increasingly, society is sold on direct cremation because it appears simple, efficient and cheap. It is also pastorally destructive leaving families with no space to grieve and acknowledge death. The Church should ask itself why it is handing the business of dealing with death over to the secular and profit-seeking funeral industry and whether something important is being lost on our watch. Christian funerals are not simply about disposing of a body. They are acts of worship in which we commend a loved one to God’s mercy, support the grieving, give thanks for a life lived, and proclaim the resurrection of Jesus.

The Church of England is a custodian of the Christian understanding of death, burial, resurrection, and hope. For two millennia, Christians have cared deeply about the treatment of the body because the body matters to God.

When the Church conducts a funeral, whether culminating in burial or cremation, it is being itself. It is doing what Christians have done for centuries: gathering around the dead and the bereaved, speaking words of hope, praying together, and declaring that death does not have the last word. If the Church becomes hesitant about offering this witness, it risks forgetting part of its own identity.

To be confident in whose we are means being confident enough to say that people need more than efficiency at the end of life. They need prayer, community, ritual, remembrance and hope. The Church serves society best not by surrendering these things but by offering them generously and joyfully and unashamedly in the way that it knows. Let’s be who we are.

WEEKDAY SERVICES

Morning Prayer takes place at 9am in Kington every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and Evening Prayer at 4pm on Mondays. All are welcome.

If you or a loved one are unable to make the services at St Mary's but would appreciate prayers or Communion by extension at home, please contact Phillippa (the Curate).

St. Mary's Church, Kington

When you read this, the school summer holidays will be almost over, and thoughts will be turning to autumn. However, now, in early August, we are forecast yet another heatwave.

Community Shop

We had a really good week in the shop, raising well over £1,000 towards the upkeep of the organ. Many thanks to all who helped in any way, whether donating items, selling in the shop, or indeed coming in to buy.

Evensong

This was sung in church by the Derby singers on August 9th, followed by tea and cakes, and a short organ recital, and much enjoyed by all who attended.

Cream teas in church

These have been well supported on Sunday afternoons during July and August, in aid of church funds. Thank you to everyone who made, served, or indeed ate the teas.

Concerts in church

We will be having monthly concerts in church between September and December, beginning with an organ recital given by Ewan Murray, followed by tea and cakes, on Saturday 12th September at 7pm. We do hope you will be able to come.

Pilgrimage

The last benefice pilgrimage of the year will be held from St. Mary's on Sunday 16th September, leaving promptly at 2pm, and finishing with teas at church.

Church tiles and ceiling

The church tiles will be restored, and missing ones replaced, hopefully in the near future. Unfortunately, we have had a further small fall of plaster from the ceiling, this time in the north porch, so the church can at present only be accessed from the south porch. We will shortly be having an inspection of the ceiling, probably from a cherry picker, to assess its

Harvest Banners St Marys

During September there is the opportunity to contribute to the making of banners. When complete these will be hung in the church for the season of Harvest Thanksgiving.

In the North aisle you will find pencils, crayons and 2 large sheets of paper. There will also be several harvest related items for you to sketch and colour.

Do drop in, make a coffee and have a quiet draw. Adults and children are welcome.

Village Fete

The sun shone on the Stagg Meadow for our annual village fete and the crowds came to support us. We had all the usual stalls and there was a lovely atmosphere buzzing around the field. After walking around the fete everyone could then enjoy a famous Titley Tea.

Any event does not just happen and our grateful thanks go to Mel George and her family for organising and coordinating everything. Thanks also to everyone else for all the help before and on the day. All proceeds from the fete are divided between the church and Village Hall and I will be able to let you know this next month.

Charity Shop

Our next fundraising event is the running of the Community Shop in September. Please have one last look and see what you have which we can sell in the shop. Please leave all items for sale at the back of the church or for larger items which need transport please ring me. All offers of help are gratefully received so please phone Judith on 01544 230734 with your offers of help.

Winter Church Services

During the winter months between October and March we have taken the decision to have just one service a month. This is due to extra costs to heat the church on these cold days. During these months there will be a service of Holy Communion at 10am on every 3rd Sunday. This is not a decision taken lightly but it makes good financial sense. We are only a small church with an even smaller but dedicated congregation. With what we have to pay out each year I am informed we will run out of money in the next six years. One way around this is if you would consider joining the Parish Giving Scheme. This is a very simple way of giving a small amount each month by standing order. We can also claim the gift aid tax relief. If we all did this, we would ensure the church is always there for when we need it.

Many thanks

Huntington Fete - 2026:

Once again, the weather for the Huntington fete was perfect – sunshine throughout the afternoon and thankfully not too hot. There was a good team of “helpers” to set up all the marquees/gazebos, tables and chairs, etc., and get everything else ready for the big event.

A good crowd started to arrive and Robert Jones said a few words and introduced Sally the Vicar who opened the fete at 3:00pm. Sally was presented with a posy of flowers by Forrest and River Lloyd (grandchildren of Pippa and Mike Lloyd).

There was a great atmosphere with many enjoying afternoon tea and relaxing in the pleasant grounds of Huntington Court, listening to a varied repertoire of songs expertly performed by “Guilty As Charged” throughout the afternoon. There were numerous games for the children to enjoy. Once again Cosmin won the “hammer the nail” adult competition, and despite several rivals competing to topple his continuous successful run, none have yet managed to do so!

The fete raised an amazing total of £3,419.00, which is divided equally between Huntington Church, Huntington URC and Huntington Village Hall, with a donation being made to the Motor Neurone Disease Association and to Newchurch Chapel. The funds raised are a testament to the community’s generosity and will be instrumental in maintaining Huntington’s churches and Village Hall.

The organisers are grateful for the overwhelming support from everyone involved, everyone who came along to enjoy the afternoon and to those who were unable to attend but sent donations. Your contributions make a significant difference – thank you all.

Kington Community Shop:

Thank you to everyone who supported Huntington Church and Village Hall by either donating items for sale in the shop or by coming along and purchasing a few bargains. The week was a huge success and raised £1,101.30.

Huntington Chase Saturday 3rd October 12:00 noon:

The annual Huntington Chase will be held on Saturday 3rd October, starting at the Village Hall and finishing as always at the Swan Inn. You can take part on horseback, ride a bike, run it, or just walk the eventful 11k course over Hergest Ridge. This popular event is enjoyed by participants and spectators and funds raised are donated to a local charity.

The first Chase event took place in 2008 and continues to be as popular as ever. Therefore, for safety reasons, places are now limited and must be booked in advance. The entry fee remains at £15, which includes soup and sandwiches. Please see adjacent poster for booking details.

God by Numbers

9 When they crucified Jesus, “From the sixth hour until the ninth hour darkness came over all the land, about the ninth hour Jesus cried out in a loud voice Eloi Eloi, lama sabachtani, which means My God, My God, why have you forsaken me?” When Jesus cried out again in a loud voice, he gave up his spirit. John records that he said “It is finished”. In the darkness when he died the temple curtain was ripped in two from top to bottom. The mission of God’s Son was to live and die as a sacrifice to redeem the whole world, both people and the natural environment.

The temple curtain symbolised the separation of God’s holy presence from the fallen world. The High Priest administered the prescribed sacrifices for man’s redemption. But now this single sacrifice made the temple system redundant. After the resurrection and ascension, the promised Holy Spirit was poured out on the believers. The Church was born. And it was equipped and empowered to spread the good news of the Gospel to the whole world.

In 1 Corinthians 12, Paul records 9 gifts of the Spirit, often given for specific tasks or to fulfil a role within a team. Gifts of wisdom, knowledge, faith, healing, miraculous powers, prophecy, distinguishing between different spirits, different tongues, and the interpretation of tongues.

In his letter to the Galatians, Paul lists the 9 fruits of the Spirit: “love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control. Against such there is no law. Since we live by the Spirit, let us keep in step with the Spirit.” God’s mission of redemption completed at the ninth hour, is patiently unfolding in us, his church, through his generous equipping with nine gifts that bear nine fruits witnessing to the Spirit’s redeeming love.

Reader Writes

It was a Friday morning during the July heatwave when I awoke with a tender patch on my skull. No wound, no mark, a mystery; I ignored it. But Trish insisted that I looked ill; could it be shingles?! I half-heartedly booked myself in for an appointment with a GP. Not until six that night did I manage to see a doctor who diagnosed shingles (but!); the “but” concerned the nature of the swelling that appeared to be spreading across the rest of my face.

Anti-viral medication wasn’t available until late Saturday morning. The “but!” part grew more important. My eyes became painful and I started seeing swirling patterns.

So, it was Saturday evening that I inched closer and closer to A&E.

An ambulance came and the crew checked me over; Yes, A&E for you. Trish took me in with my optimistically small bag of essentials. The impressive resources of the Accident Department meant that blood tests, scans, doctors and consultants were circulating rapidly; and the answer was Ocular Cellulitis, which I had never heard of either. But it turns out to be a rather dangerous bacterial infection of the eyes. The optical nerve is a highway to the brain and can carry dangerous or even fatal infection to it’s very heart.

An intravenous anti-biotic was plugged in while I curled up in my chair. The beginning of recovery! But the most memorable part of the experience was the huge and diverse team of NHS staff. The place hummed. A Rob was in charge of Acute Medical Unit 4 where the sick and confused clung to their seats like life-rafts. A drunkard tumbled onto the floor; clearly a regular. I promised to pray for a Helen. An Indian consultant called me “good man!” for getting something right. And I asked a nurse: Are you from the Philippines? “No! Nepal!”

Eventually I found myself up in the main hospital where Christina from Romania, and others from Asia to Ukraine, looked after us all. Often, I found myself wondering: Is it faith that predisposes love for your neighbour? How disturbing that there are well rooted political views that find the exotic and different a threat. The endless concerns over immigration are baffling when you experience the diversity and technical brilliance in your new neighbour.

Jesus told us to love our neighbour as ourselves.

In the parable of the good Samaritan, the outsider was the only one to stop and help a victim of robbery left dying on the roadside. Do we love our neighbour through gritted teeth when faced with the inconvenience; or do we find our decision to do so opens Spirit-given springs of love? I find the ethnic diversity and natural gifts of immigrants beautiful and awesome. A boy wearing an Orthodox cross once came into the Community Shop hunting for clothes to work in a care home. I guessed rightly he had been through much. Having been smuggled out of Eritrea and across the Sahara to Libya, he was put in an overloaded boat and pushed off into the Mediterranean. Economic migrant or refugee or both; it was easy to love this neighbour who clearly had courage and faith and wore it round his neck to show us.

Operation Dove

We are very pleased to say that today (August 12) we have received Planning Permission to complete the work on the Dove, including the change of use to a Community Space together with new signage on the front of the building. The permission also includes the provision of a new staircase up to the space above the Yarn Barn which will really help with storage. The only extra conditions that we have to fulfil are to start the work within three years and to provide some secure bicycle storage under cover.

By the time you read this report, the fundraising event on 23 August will have taken place, and other activities will have been planned. We are very keen to introduce monthly Coffee Mornings where we can all enjoy tea, coffee, cake and biscuits whilst enjoying each other's company and helping to raise much needed funds for St Mary's church. The position of the Dove in the middle of Kington's High Street is ideal for a great many social occasions, so if you have a particular activity that you would like to see happening there, then please get in touch so that we can see what can be arranged.

The Yarn Barn is continuing to operate on Monday and Wednesday mornings, and several people are learning new skills such as pin weaving and drop spindle spinning, with many more crafts available. We are hoping that the stairs up to the first floor will be installed during September, following the final Dove improvements. Once the stairs are in place, we will be able to have a lot more spinning and weaving equipment on site as well as more craft materials. Even if you don't want to join in any of the craft activities, why not drop in to see what's going on and enjoy a cup of tea and biscuits? You never know – you might get the urge to have a go yourself.

Kington Foodbank has Moved!

On the 21st August, Kington Foodbank moved from the Old School Rooms at the Baptist Church to Kington Parish Hall at the top of Church Street. The session times have also changed slightly as a result of the move. Foodbank now operates from 11:30 to 1:30 on a Friday.

Kington Foodbank opened in 2013 to meet the needs of people in Kington and the surrounding area who are experience food insecurity, often for reasons beyond their control. The Foodbank runs a voucher scheme; these can be accessed from schools, GPs, Churches, Health Visitors or Job Centres. If you find yourself in need but unable to access a voucher, please contact Foodbank directly. Everyone is welcomed.

The provision relies on the generosity of others who donate food, money and volunteer to run Foodbank. We thank everyone who contributes to this project. If you would like to find out more about how you can help, please get in touch.

Foodbank was originally set up by Churches Together in Kington. The next 12 months will be a key time for discerning how Foodbank evolves to meet the needs of the community. Any positive contributions to this discussion would be welcomed.

MONTHLY MUSINGS

“Wars and rumours of wars”

(Matt 24.6).

Whenever I turn on the radio and hear the headlines of the news my ears are assaulted by reports of bombings and destruction. Then at present when I turn to the O.T. lesson set for Matins it's about tribal conflicts and massacres. On viewing Countryfile recently we visited historical world war training sites, and I'm reminded how it was for me in the war as a child in the early forties. Imagine how much worse it must be for children in Gaza, for instance, and indeed in all the war-torn areas of today's unhappy world.

My recent musings have been influenced by a number of things. (1.) I've just read Rob MacCurrach's Reader Writes page in the August Parish News, and I find myself agreeing with so much (including his enthusiasm about early walks. We currently do 2 or 3 miles from 6.30 every morning before the heat. Bliss!). His observations about the effects of climate breakdown are so very well expressed. (2.) We've just given a nod to Lammas – Emma made a barley loaf for our Eucharist a day later, suitable for harvest time. We've just seen the wheat cut at Newburn, and suspect, from what we've observed on walks, that it's a poor, small crop for such a huge acreage. Our garden is not thriving during this prolonged drought. (3.) I love to see the youngsters playing football over the road; but I'm filled with apprehension about their future. I know the young are resilient. I and my generation mostly survived the strictures imposed by the World War and these youngsters have apparently come through Covid O.K. But another 50 or so years at the frightening pace of technological development? And

Climate Change? (4.) War! My recent O.T. readings have been about little else, one tribe having fun wiping out another. It's endemic in humankind, a sort of sport or popular pastime. Jesus, the Prince of Peace knew that, and he prophesied that there will be wars and rumours of wars, when he was musing about the end times. (Matthew 24: pretty terrible stuff!). Yet we are to hold fast to the truth of the gospel. I wrote this hymn some time ago, called Hiroshima, after the first devastating use of an atomic bomb on 6th August 1945. (* See Proverbs 4.17)

Milled from our surplus ploughed in acres, leavened with third world famine and drought, this bread's the best we nuclear bakers can holocaustically turn out.

Accept Lord, from your congregation, this bread-of-wickedness oblation.

*Bottled and corked, yet still fermenting our finest vintage – '45, in spite of nuclear deterrenting
the yeast of war-fear keeps alive.
This wine of violence Lord we dare to offer you, whose peace we share!*

*Bearing the burden of this confession up the dark aisle of history, this stumbling offertory procession comes to the place of mystery, where your spoiled gifts, returned to you,
are blessed and broken, and made new!*

From Lady Hawkins School

As another school year draws to a close, our Year 6 pupils are preparing to embark on one of the biggest adventures of their young lives—starting secondary school with us this September.

During a recent transition day, pupils took part in a creative writing workshop designed to encourage imagination and self-expression. They were invited to imagine themselves as a message in a bottle, drifting across the open sea.

The poems that follow capture the remarkable creativity of these young writers. Together, they offer a glimpse into the minds of children on the cusp of an exciting new journey, reminding us that every voyage begins with a single step—or, in this case, a bottle set gently adrift upon the waves.

We are delighted to share a selection of their work and celebrate the imagination and individuality of the Year 6 pupils as they prepare to set sail for secondary school.

Bobbing in the ocean,
With a message inside of me,
In the lapping azure water,
Isolated and lonely.

Message in a bottle,
Gliding in every way,
In the warm sapphire sea,
Hoping to be found one day.

I'm drifting really quickly,
On a hot summer's afternoon,
Thinking to myself,
I will be found soon.

The tempest has descended,
In this blood-curdling sea,
The water is freezing,
The only thing around is me.

Not a Proper Gardener

Well, St Swithin's Day, 15th July, came and went and offered no rain, so superstition says that we seem to be in the middle of a further 40-day drought as I write this on 6th August. This means that we have until 25th August before we have any rain! Emma's just been digging out the sludge from our little pond, hoping that some rain will fill it. Meanwhile she's having to make provision for the frogs. And she's found a small frog hiding in the lettuces to up the count.

In the greenhouse, and in a protected box outside, the lettuces are doing well thanks to the daily 6 o'clock tour with watercans made by Giles and Emma. But in the greenhouse a fledgling blackbird has taken up residence. Naughtily it's dug up two marigolds and a cucumber plant, flinging soil all over the path. When it sees Emma coming it hops onto the door guard and shouts at her! Meanwhile the hedgehogs continue to thrive on their calci worms and to provide some entertainment. Walking up the garden path at dusk, Emma heard an odd bubbling sound coming from under the patio pear tree. She stopped to puzzle over what this could be, and before long out came a middle-sized hedgehog. They looked at each other blearily and then the hedgehog ambled off towards the house.

As usual, owing to my dizziness. I rely mostly on Emma for material for this article. So what of the garden; how is it dealing with the excessive heat? The broad beans did pretty well, even those drying in the pod. The runner beans came in early and the flowers were protected from birds, but they are not setting well. And the dwarf French beans were planted out into dry soil which Emma has mulched with manure. The peas were a complete failure; it was simply too hot for them. But surprisingly the winter kale, which was doing nothing earlier, has suddenly sprung into life and tastes great.

Tree fruits are not bad, but need some rain. Those where flowers were caught by that late frost have, of course done nothing, and there are not so many pears or figs as usual. The redcurrant bush, netted, produced well. But the greatest surprise has been the plum tree, Herman, which has been bowed down so heavily with its tasty small oval dark fruits. Emma's bottled and given away so many plums in addition to all we've been eating. So in spite of climate change, things could have been worse.

Happy gardening, Denis.

News From the Museum

Transactions of the House of Meredith

Richard Meredith had a Grocery department within the Hardware store but whether father Henry started this we do not know.

These are some extracts from the Day Book whether from 1937 or 1789, these books recorded not only sales, but purchases. One such entry was for “1lb of cheese 5d “or “1lb of old cheese 6d” (mature may be) what was the difference in the cheese to the customer, besides the price? A wheel of cheese purchased at £20 for a named village shop suggests large quantities were purchased at quite a high price. Was the cheese bought locally from one of the many farms? Kington was known for producing wool, mutton, beasts, hides, beef and cheese, with enough arable to provide wheat, oats and barley, and mountainous land on which the sheep roamed as they do today.

There are scores entries showing pitch, tar, raddle all used for the welfare of the sheep.

There were high purchases of corks and bungs used in cider making although Kington is not really known for this, no doubt farms made their own. We hold a clay bung, which is very hard; but the bungs were made from wood as the cork would have to been imported.

Chalk was found up the valley selling to Meredith’s at 35 shillings a ton, but the “carriage and haulage” always came to more than the material. Meredith’s owned a fleet of trucks used on the tramway until the railways came along. Shrewsbury was the nearest station which goods could be delivered for final redistribution by horse traffic. This short list of commodities sold by the hundred weight bake stones, sheet lead, strake iron, weights 3 pound to 56, sand, molasses, scrap iron. sad irons gives us insight to the range of goods the warehouse.

One reason John Meredith decided to bring in nail makers from Staffordshire was the quantities sold in the warehouse with the majority bought by Lord Oxford of Eyewood. One purchase was for 120 pounds of Hurdle nails charged at £2. 5 shillings. This was a busy Sunday as Mr Parry Joiner bought 2 cupboard locks, padlocks and a dozen brass screws. From Parry’s Purchases entered it suggested he made coffins as well as furniture. Like today, there are nails for specific jobs, included were ox, tiling, lath nails, hobs and springs. It is surmised that Richard Meredith had a smith working for him in 1790 which would explain the iron items sold.

A lot of metal was sold by weight. When the families moved into Nail Row (Sunset Row) four furnaces were built in the yard, to enable the wives to make nails.

William Angel was the last warehouseman employed for more than 55 years by the Meredith’s. He stated the scales were always “dodgy” but spot on when the inspector called!

A big thank you to all the volunteers and donors who gave generously to the Museum’s successful week in the Charity Shop.

Brilley Flicks in the Sticks & Live Performance

Thursday 3rd September at 7.30: Hamnet (12A), £5

Hamnet tells the powerful love story behind the creation of Shakespeare's timeless masterpiece, Hamlet. After the death of their son Hamnet, Agnes and William Shakespeare are left to grapple with grief. Set in 16th-century England, Hamnet was primarily filmed in Herefordshire, including Weobley and Brilley, chosen for their beautiful landscapes and Tudor-era architecture.

Thursday 1st October at 7.30: One Battle After Another (cert 15), £5

A superb action-packed thriller, laced with humour and inventiveness. Washed-up revolutionary Bob (Leonardo DiCaprio) exists in a state of stoned paranoia, surviving off grid with his spirited, self-reliant daughter, Willa. When his evil nemesis resurfaces after 16 years and Willa goes missing, the former radical scrambles to find her, father and daughter both battling the consequences of his past. Based on the Thomas Pynchon novel Vineland, the film pits the politics of counterculture against the forces of reaction with manic energy. This is a film to be watched on the big screen, not least for the magnificent car chase sequence. 'It's impossible to overstate how much fun this thing is.' Baltimore Magazine

Saturday 31st October at 7.30: Live performance:

Michael Messer and Chaz Jankel in concert

Slide guitar supremo and songwriter Michael Messer (favourite of Johnny Cash), in concert with Ian Dury & the Blockheads legend and multi-instrumentalist songwriter Chaz Jankel. The pair have known each for almost 50 years, but it wasn't until a phone chat in 2020 and the suggestion of meeting for a jam that it all came together. And how! These two artists wear decades of combined musical experience lightly, as their music displays a freshness of approach and adds new twists to their foundational influences in blues, world, funk, new wave and rock. The exhilarating and accessible music Michael & Chaz make together bears comparison with the finest work in either of their garlanded careers. Tickets £12. Bar open before the show and during the interval

And looking ahead:

Thursday 5th November at 7.30: The Trouble with Jessica (15), £5

Thursday 3rd December at 7.30: Midwinter Break (12A), £5

Thursday 7th January at 7.30: Rebuilding (PG), £5

Brilley and Michaelchurch Village Hall (HR3 6JG), doors open at 7pm. For Flicks nights - don't forget to bring your own refreshments!

As usual advance booking only - please book and pay for your tickets online at pay-brilley.co.uk

Caring for God's Acre

NightWatch

As the sun sets over our churchyards and burial grounds, a whole other world comes alive. Using some nifty technology, we can listen in on this hidden world to find out just what kind of wildlife is thriving there.

At Caring for God's Acre, we've recently acquired a fantastic bit of kit called a passive acoustic monitor. These little devices can be set up to record and monitor a whole range of sounds in environments that would otherwise be difficult to survey, helping you discover what species are about. For instance, we've been using our acoustic monitor to survey bats in local churchyards.

The devices can be left out for a few hours, days or even weeks. They utilise a small microphone, to detect and convert incoming sound waves into a signal which can be recorded and stored for later analysis. Once back at home, you can then download the data to analyse and see what species you've heard. Some models will do this for you, some won't; it entirely depends on the model.

Bats use echolocation to hunt for insects at high frequencies that we humans can't hear. Individual species emit calls that correspond to their size, flight, behaviour, environment and prey types. Each will produce a distinctive call that can be recognised on the acoustic monitor or during sound analysis.

It can be difficult to navigate these tools for a first timer. Never fear; our friends at Bat Conservation Trust (BCT) have made surveying for bats accessible and easy for everyone.

BCT has been running the National Bat Monitoring Programme since 1996. Through its various mediums, all the recorded data helps inform bat conservation across the UK. One part of the programme is the NightWatch survey. Taking place between July and October, NightWatch is a community science project helping you discover the hidden world of nighttime nature living in your neighbourhood. No experience or previous knowledge is needed to take part, just for you to be over 16 and have a windowsill, garden, churchyard or urban space you have permission to survey. They greatly encourage people in towns and cities to get involved, so we can monitor how bats are faring in urban areas.

The process is simple. Choose a date and book your kit via the survey portal. Next, a free kit arrives in the post including an "AudioMoth". This is your mini passive acoustic monitoring device! Switch it on, secure in place and you're ready to go. At the same time, you'll sit with the detector watching and listening for any night wildlife. Whatever you spot, you make a record of. Once you're done, post the kit back in the post and wait to hear back from BCT with your personalised report of the bats you discovered during the survey.

More information on how to sign up and book your kit is linked here: <https://www.bats.org.uk/our-work/science-research/passive-acoustic-surveys/nightwatch>

Between 60-90% of historic churches now have protected bat roosts, making the surrounding churchyard space even more important for bat conservation. Keeping churchyards chemical free, full of rich and diverse habitats that attract varied food sources, provides critical sanctuary for these nocturnal species. Consider getting involved in your local burial ground for bats and other wildlife in whatever way you can.

KINGTON TOWN COUNCIL UPDATE

September update

At the time of publication, the first phase of the pavement improvements should have been finished and given a nice fresh look to the town. We now await further works at the bottom of Bridge Street and new light to the bridge. We will let you know as soon as we have a date for things to start.

The council alongside the Chamber of Trade are working on some new signs for the entry points into the town. We hope these can be welcoming and informative and help to bring visitors into the town, we are also hoping to add some extra car parking signs to direct visitors to the appropriate car parks in the town.

Talking of signs, I cannot let the opportunity pass of commenting on the great work the Swan have undertaken in revitalising the signposts in the town. Their charity works are an example to all of us and the street clean ups they are organising are a great way of establishing a community spirit with the town benefiting by looking so much cleaner. Thank you to Casey and Luke and all that have helped.

As Mayor I attended a Parish Summit in Hereford where all of the town and Parish councils in Herefordshire get to hear what is going on across the county. It was interesting to talk with the mayors of the other market towns and to find out that they experience the same frustrations and problems that we in Kington do.

One final point was to learn that central government are considering Herefordshire becoming part of a larger Mayoral authority which may include Worcestershire and Warwickshire. How this will affect us here in Kington we are yet to find out and as it's still a long way off, so we await further developments.

Mayor: Kington Town Council

Kington Advent Windows 2026

Here's an idea for an Advent calendar with a difference: Advent Windows.

An Advent window display is a collaboration between artists and home/shop owners in the centre of town. The windows will be within easy walking distance of each other, so that a trail including all 24 windows can be designed.

Day by day throughout Advent, the Nativity Story will be built up from 1st December-24th December.

Participants are given a Bible verse, part of the Nativity Story, and are invited to create a display in a window of their home and light it up. The window will also contain the relevant Bible verse.

Those who do not want to design a picture but are happy for their window to be used, can be paired up with artists who live further out from the town centre.

The windows are lit up on the day they have been given. Day by day more and more lights will be going on in more and more windows, until by Christmas Eve we will have 24 windows lit up, telling the story of the first Christmas.

The display can be as simple or as complex as you choose – all we ask is that the window is lit from 4.00 – 7.00 (or longer if you choose) each evening from the day of your own window until December 24. There will also be a map of the town showing where all the windows are, and what number they are.

If you would like to take part as a home owner, shop keeper or artist please contact Paul Roberts (07989 265272).

Have you ever thought of joining an Art Group?

Kington Art Group is waiting for you!

In these stressful times, painting or drawing can promote a feeling of calm and relaxation. Kington Art Group (which has been running for many years) is a friendly and informal group of people of all levels, from beginner to very experienced, who enjoy the social aspect of painting together. We are a Pay As You Go group and the weekly payment of £2 (or £15 for 10 weeks) covers the cost of refreshments.

We meet every Thursday afternoon between 1.30 and 4pm at the Kingswood Village Hall (very near the Small Breeds Farm) on Kingswood Road, Kington HR5 3HE. Plenty of free parking

If you are interested, why not drop in on a Thursday afternoon to chat to members to see if you would like to join us, with no commitment to join.

Kington: Where Art Reigns – h.Art 2026

From 5–13 September, Kington and its surrounding hamlets will once again celebrate h.Art, Herefordshire Art Week, opening studios, workshops and galleries and inviting visitors to discover an inspiring wealth of creativity on our doorstep.

Explore beautiful woodturning at Tink Woodsmith in Rushock; art inspired by the landscape and gardens at Hergest Croft; and photography, talks and events at Marches Japanese Garden. In and around Kington, discover Clare Conrad's distinctive ceramics; textiles, mixed media, paintings and prints at Flock; work by Kathryn Moore at Kat and Fiddle Studio; and a wonderful collective of artists showing at The Old Picture House.

Peter Horrocks' atmospheric earth-pigment paintings are also well worth a visit – Peter has opened his studio for many of h.Art's 24 years! Further afield, discover the Yew Tree Collective at Huntington, James Burnett-Stuart's highly individual decorated earthenware and Kit Garnett's impressive forged and sculptural metalwork.

Nearby, Radnorshire Artists at The Hymns, The Gallery Studerfineart in Presteigne, and creative clusters in Knighton and Knucklas offer even more reasons to make a day, or several days, of exploring.

Meet the makers, discover how work is created, join a workshop, buy directly from artists or commission something truly special.

Pick up your h.Art guide locally, plan your route and enjoy a creative day out.

God in the Arts

Editor: Have you ever thought how an actual church building might provide a series of visual aids to spiritual meditation? The Revd Michael Burgess continues his procession through a church building, this month pausing to consider the significance of the church bells.

‘He gave us eyes to see them’ – the church bells

‘Summoned by Bells’ is the title of John Betjeman’s poetic autobiography, where he describes how bells summoned him to school and to church. Bells announcing the joy of weddings and Sunday services; and also marking out times of sadness & death.

One of the strangest bell-towers is at St Augustine’s Church, Brookland in Kent, north-east of Rye. It was originally built in the medieval period, and now stands as a triple coned, wooden, octagonal tower detached from the church, and clad with shingles in 1936.

The story is that the tower looked down at a beautiful bride about to marry an unpleasant groom: it was such a surprise that the tower jumped off the church in shock. The truth is that the church was built on marshy ground, and a stronger foundation was needed for the bells. And so the tower was built north of the church.

Like all belfries and steeples, it is an impressive witness to the place of bells in human life and work: as time-keepers, announcing both festive occasions and emergencies, and calling people away from more worldly pursuits to worship. That is why bells have always been blessed at their installation for their true function is to ring out the harmony of heaven.

The tenor bell at Warburton Church in Cheshire is inscribed with the words, ‘I bid you to the house of prayer. St Werburgh’s hallowed name I bear. Good folk draw near and humbly pray, as prayed that saint in olden day.’ As a little boy, John Betjeman would listen to the bells with his teddy bear, Archibald. ‘I heard the church bells hollowing out the sky, deep beyond deep, like never-ending stars.’ For him, for the people of Brookland, and for all of us, the bells were like stars lighting up the sky with faith and joy and praise.
